

Lance Jenson

"I'm excited to be working with America250PA because I'll be engaging with history in the making! Not only is it the recollection of life in Pennsylvania leading up to now, but it too will be a great historical event of its own significance years in the future."

Bio: Hello, my name is Lance! I am a History/Secondary Ed. student at King's College in Wilkes-Barre, PA. I am currently the President and main Editor of The Scop, the literary magazine of King's College, as well as the Vice President of Campion Society, our literary club on campus. I am also a 2020 graduate of the Greater Nanticoke Area High School, where I joined the theatre crew, played on the school's QuizBowl team, and served as President of the Student Council during my senior year. Outside of my studies, I enjoy traveling and everything music!

I'm #PAProud because I feel a natural connection to the state's gorgeous lands and the history of its people!